

EVENT IN DESIGN

This exercise in design drew inspiration from a historic (or in this case fictitious?) event. Springboarding from the Soviet launch of mankind's first man-maned satellite and the conspiracy of the Roswell, New Mexico flying saucer crash, a series of sketches developed around these events. The smaller thumbs here represent preliminary design work, with the larger graphic showing the final piece based upon the legend of the Roswell flying saucer.